Cookie Policy

JAROCASES • www.jarocases.com • English translation of the policy dated 8 November 2026

1. What are cookies?

Cookies are small pieces of information stored by a web browser on a visitor’s device. They can be used to maintain a session, operate website features and prevent abuse. Analytics and marketing cookies are separate categories when a website operator uses such technologies.

2. Cookies used by the JAROCASES website

The contact form on www.jarocases.com uses a PHP session for security and spam protection. The following essential cookie may therefore be stored:

PHPSESSID — a first-party, essential session cookie used to identify the form session, validate the security token and limit repeated submissions. It normally lasts until the browser session ends, depending on browser settings.

The form configures the session with HttpOnly and SameSite=Lax, and also Secure when an HTTPS connection is used. The exact cookie name and parameters may vary with the web server software configuration.

3. Essential cookies and consent

Under Article 399 of the Polish Electronic Communications Law, storing information on a visitor’s device or gaining access to it generally requires prior information and consent, with exceptions for operations necessary to provide a service expressly requested by the user.

The technical session cookie supports secure use of the contact form and is treated as necessary for this function. A separate consent button is therefore not required for this cookie. Blocking it may prevent successful form submission.

4. Analytics and advertising

The website version described in this policy does not embed Google Analytics, Meta Pixel or similar advertising profiling scripts. Such tools are not used here to set cookies for campaign measurement or remarketing.

If non-essential analytics or marketing cookies or comparable technologies are introduced later, they should be activated only after any legally required consent has been obtained, with options to refuse and change the decision later.

5. External connections which do not necessarily set cookies

The website loads Lato fonts via Google Fonts. This creates a connection to Google servers and may transmit necessary technical details, including the visitor’s IP address. This does not in itself mean JAROCASES sets an advertising cookie. See https://fonts.google.com/about and https://policies.google.com/privacy.

The Contact page links to WhatsApp, Facebook and Instagram. These are ordinary links, not embedded widgets. Once you follow such a link, the external website may apply its own cookies and privacy policy.

The web server may also keep standard technical logs for processing requests and security. Server logs are not themselves cookies stored on a visitor’s device.

6. Managing cookies

You can delete cookies, prevent them from being stored and manage exceptions for individual websites through browser settings (for example in Chrome, Edge, Firefox or Safari), usually under “Privacy and security” or “Cookies and site data”.

You can also remove locally stored website data. Blocking all cookies may limit the operation of some features, in particular the protected enquiry form.

7. Controller and contact

The website operator is JARO CASES spółka z ograniczoną odpowiedzialnością (JAROCASES), Fryderyka Szopena 35C/W164, 35-055 Rzeszów, Poland; KRS: 0001127799, NIP: 8133921476. Contact: biuro@jarocases.com, +48 726 600 271.

Personal data processing is described in the Privacy Policy: https://www.jarocases.com/dokumenty/privacy-policy-en.pdf.

8. Updates

This policy will be updated if the website technology, services or applicable law changes. The current version is published on www.jarocases.com. Original Polish policy effective date: 8 November 2026.

This English text is provided for convenience as a translation of the Polish cookie policy. Please review its accuracy and legal suitability before publishing or relying on it.